Of those, approximately 25 per cent were promoted and 37 per cent moved on their own laterally within or across departments, duty stations and occupational groups. Another 38 per cent were moved through managed reassignment. Of all the P-2s eligible to participate in a managed reassignment programme, 12 per cent requested deferrals for one year for various reasons, including for operational needs, such as the ability to complete a budget cycle, or for compelling personal circumstances. The remaining 5 per cent resigned from the Organization.
